Comment. This is the first report by a new source. As no information on loads was given, the individual shipments could not be determined. The following conclusions, however, were drawn from the type railroad car, weight, receiving station [redacted]

Shipments [redacted] are definitely believed to consist of ammunition. The information confirms previous observations. Consignees were the ammunition depots at Altengrabow and Kapran.

Shipments [redacted] contained fuel consigned to the fuel depots at Velten, Magdeburg-harbor, Muenchenbernsdorf, Piesenthal, Strassgraebchen-Bernsdorf, Kummerdorf and Radebeul. Fuel shipments to Wolgast, which were probably consigned to a naval office, have been repeatedly observed.

Shipments [redacted] possibly contained ration supply for the GDRG and army supply depots located at the receiving stations mentioned in the present report. Compared with previous supply traffic, the number of shipments indicate a substantial increase of supplies from the MSSR, which possibly resulted from the food crisis in the GDR. The Soviets had to drop the quantity of supply previously drawn from the GDR. Similar observations were already made in January 1954.

[redacted] indicate that shipments with Fuerstenwalde, Muellrose and Kirchmoeser as receiving stations contained spare parts for tank repair shops, while shipments to Bernau carried clothing for the central clothing depot at Bernau.

The shipment [redacted] to Grossenhain on 26 February 1954 possibly contained crated aircraft for the fighter division stationed there. A similar shipment to Grossenhain was observed crossing the border on 13 February 1954. [redacted]

All other shipments could not be interpreted.
